THOMAS PRINCE BEAL, Class Secretary.

C I R C U L A R .

CLASS OF 1869.

In order to prepare my Fourth Triennial Report, I respectfully ask answers to the following questions for the three years since the date of my Third Triennial, June 1, 1878:—

1. Residence and occupation; where you have been, and in what engaged, and what journeys you have made.

2. When and where admitted as a member of your profession, or engaged in business.

3. Public offices of profit, honor, or trust, of every kind, which you have held, with date of your commission, elections, or appointments, and times of continuance therein.

4. Marriage: time and place, with maiden name and residence of your wife, and her parents' names.

5. Names and birthdays of children.

6. Death of wife or children, with date.

7. College degrees received, and membership of societies.

8. Authorship of books, pamphlets, etc., with their exact titles and dates of publication.

9. Other circumstances in your life, which you may deem proper subjects of record.

10. Your address in full.

Annexed are the items printed concerning you in my Third Triennial. Please correct and return to me where needful.

The Triennial Class dinner will take place at "Parker's," in this city, on Tuesday, June 28, the evening preceding Commencement, at 7 o'clock. The expense will be met from the Class Fund. All members of the Class are expected, and each member will please notify me whether he intends to be present or not.

Subscriptions to the Class Fund can still be made, and unpaid subscriptions paid.

Care is asked that a reply be made to this circular at least before April 10, 1881. The Report depends on this; and our Class feeling, still strong and hearty I trust, should urge each member to attend to it.

THOMAS P. BEAL,

Class Secretary.

CLASSMATES :—

Herewith I present my Fourth Triennial Report, containing a record of the Class during the past three years as given to me, in almost all cases by themselves, in reply to my circular of March 14, 1881.

The number married during the past three years has been twenty-two; of those who graduated, twenty; of non-graduates, two.

The total number of the class now married is seventy-nine.

The class children during the past three years have been forty-nine, making the total number one hundred twenty-six.

Of those graduated in 1869, three have died since my last report, William Henry French, Francis Low, William Oxnard Moseley, Jr. Notice, in accordance with the Class resolution, was taken at the Commencement succeeding their decease, and will be found in this report.

The accounts of the Class Fund are presented and minutes of the Class meetings.

Of those graduates in 1869, Edw. T. Comegys is the only one of whom I know nothing during the past three years. I should be glad of any information in regard to him.

I must again ask that members notify me of all errors in this report and of future changes in their occupation or address.

I would thank the members of the Class for their almost universal response to my circular, and ask their continued attention to similar future requests, believing that thus in a much greater degree will be continued that Class feeling of '69 which, up to this time, my office as Secretary has proved to me to be so strong and hearty.

THOMAS P. BEAL,
Class Secretary.

CLASS OF 1869.

FRANCIS HENRY APPLETON.

In answer to circular, he says : " Residence continues to be Peabody, Essex County, Mass. Occupation, agriculture. Have continued to write articles on agricultural subjects and have been especially interested in the subject of 'Ensilage,' which is the process of preserving in air-tight pits, or 'silos,' green corn-stalks for winter food for cattle. When in Austria-Hungary, in 1873, visiting some extensive farms, owned by the Archduke Albrecht, my attention being called to this process of preserving green corn-stalks, I urged my Hungarian companion and friend to write upon the subject for the 'American Agriculturist,' which he did under date of October, 1873. I also called the attention of Essex County farmers to the process in part of an essay published in the 'Transactions of our County Agricultural Society,' for 1873.

"I mention these facts because, in 1873, this subject attracted little, if any, attention ; whereas, to-day, the agricultural publications are full of discussions upon its merits. If summer food of cows can be preserved into the winter, it would seem that our freshly-made winter butter can be improved as well as our milk and cream. Any experimenting on this subject which may become of great public benefit, should be encouraged.

"Am director in the Boston Wharf Company and in the Pittsfield & North Adams Railroad Company, and have held the positions about three years. Represent the town of Peabody as trustee of the Essex Agricultural Society by annual election. Was reelected treasurer of the Alumni Association of St. Paul's School, Concord, N.H., for three years, in 1880.

"Commissioned Captain, Company A, 1st Corps Cadets, M.V.M., July 19, 1879.

"A daughter, Amy Silsbee, was born March 4, 1881.

"Infant son, John, died September 31, 1879."

WILLIAM FOSTER APTHORP.

Residence, the past three years, Boston.

Retains the position of Professor of "Æsthetics and Musical Criticism," in Boston University.

Connection with "Atlantic Monthly" stopped in 1877, and with the "Boston Sunday Courier," in 1878.

Was musical and dramatic critic of the "Boston Daily Traveller" during 1879-1880.

Has published with Henry Holt & Co., of New York, a volume of translations from the French of Hector Berlioz.

The name of his wife and wife's mother given in the Third Triennial as Low, should be Loir.

HENRY GREEN ATWATER.

Continues his practice as a lawyer, at 71 Wall street, New York. Joined the University Club, New York, May 2, 1881.

January 19, 1880, married at Brunswick, Georgia, to Anna Maria Drury, of that place, daughter of Le Baron and Eliza Drury.

March 17, 1881, a son was born.

FRANCIS ATWOOD.

Has continued the practice of his profession at St. Paul, Minn.

JAMES BOURNE AYER.

Has continued the practice of medicine in Boston since the last report. Removed to 53 Mt. Vernon street, in August, 1879.

Have been elected to the Medical Improvement Society and the Boston Medico-Psychological Society.

June 24, 1879, a son, Nathaniel Farwell, was born.

GEORGE HOMER BALL.

Has continued the practice of law in Worcester.

Has held for short times the offices of Assistant District Attorney and District Attorney for the Middle District, by appointment.

Was married at Worcester, Mass., October 29, 1878, to Florence Gill, daughter of George W. and Sarah Gill, all of Worcester.

September 10, 1879, a daughter, Edith Maria, was born.

FRANKLIN BARTLETT.

"Since the publication of the last Triennial Class Report, in June, 1878, I have continued in the active practice of my profession, at No. 168 Nassau street, in the City of New York.

"The degree of Ph. D. was conferred upon me at Commencement (at Cambridge), 1878, and at that time I delivered an oration on 'The Struggle for Land in Ireland in the Sixteenth Century.'

"In 1880 I was elected an honorary member of the Φ .B.K. Society.

"In 1879 I was elected a member of The Camden Society, of London, and, in 1880, of the New York Historical Society."

JOSIAH CALEF BARTLETT.

He writes: "In June, 1880, I resigned the position of Principal of Bristol Academy, in Taunton, and have since devoted my attention to mining.

"My business has called me north, south, east, and west in this country ; otherwise I have made no journeys. My residence and address is at present, Taunton, Mass.

" June 30, 1878, was married to Grace, eldest daughter of Dr. Ira and Martha E. Sampson, all of Taunton, Mass.

" June 24, 1879, a son, Josiah Calef, Jr., was born."

THOMAS PRINCE BEAL.

Has continued to occupy the same position in the Second National Bank, of Boston, during the past three years.

JOSEPH SMITH BIGELOW.

Residence continues to be Boston, and office at 178 Devonshire street, as in previous report.

October 3, 1880, a son, Henry Bryant, was born.

GEORGE EMERSON BIRD.

Continues the practice of his profession at Portland.

CHARLES JASON BLANEY.

JOSEPH DODDRIDGE BRANNAN.

Continues the practice of his profession in Cincinnati.

HENRY BRETT.

He writes: "Continue to live in Calumet, Mich. Clerk of the Osceola Mining Co.

"In July, 1880, had the clerkship of the Ahmeek Mining Co. added to my cares.

"Elected Justice of the Peace in 1879.

"Married in Newport, R.I., June 26, 1878, to Mary, daughter of Benjamin and Sarah (Johnson) Hammond.

"September 17, 1880, Mabel Hammond Brett born."

JOHN KITTREDGE BROWN.

Went to Harpoot, Eastern Turkey, in 1875, where he still remains engaged in the missionary work, his time being largely devoted to teaching.

September 8, 1876, was married, at the United States Legation, Constantinople, to Lelia Kendall, formerly of Cambridge, Mass.

WILLIAM TILLINGHAST BULL.

Has continued the practice of his profession in New York.

February, 1880, appointed one of the surgeons to St. Luke's Hospital.

September, 1880, Demonstrator of Anatomy in the College of Physicians and Surgeons.

Also, holds the position of Consulting Surgeon to the Hospital for Ruptured and Crippled.

HENRY FRANKLIN BURT.

He writes : " I am located at Palmyra, New York, as at the date of your last report, and have been teaching here continuously since that report. My journeys have been confined to an annual visit to my old home in Massachusetts, during the summer vacation.

" A pedagogue is not subject to thrilling adventures or hair-breadth escapes, nor does he amass riches, and the public offices of honor, trust, and profit which he holds are 'in your mind's eye, Horatio.'"

PRESCOTT HALL BUTLER.

Has continued the practice of his profession in New York. August 10, 1879, a daughter, Susan Louisa, was born.

CHARLES LABAN CAPEN.

He writes : " Your circular lies on my desk, reminding me forcibly that three years have passed away very rapidly. My surroundings have not changed in any important respect since your third report. About all that can be said is that I have been hard at work at the usual routine of a lawyer's life."

NATHANIEL CHILDS.

He writes : " I've led a very busy life since I left journalism, and could possibly tell a few tales of interest, but they are for the chimney-corner, or over a bowl (or barrel) of punch.

" 1. Residence — everywhere ! Have journeyed twice over the U. S. and Canada, and made a wee tour in Europe. Have been Business Manager for J. C. Williamson, and now occupy the like position for Mme. Janauschek.

" 2. Admitted to my profession in the Hasty Pudding Club, and when I was introduced to a ballet-girl at the Globe Theatre.

" 3. Answered in No. 1.

" 4. 'I'll never tell.'

"5. Likewise, it wouldn't do.

"8. Have written extravaganzas, 'Hiawatha,' and part of 'The Little Corsair.' Adapted, with Dr. Harris, 'The Lark,' and wrote 'The Robinsonade.' Also, 'Tit for Tat,' 'A Happy Man at Last,' and 'Dreams' (with Willie Edouin), all of which have been performed upon the stage, the two first named for several seasons, and the last named for this entire season.

"Have also written numerous papers and articles, several plays yet to be performed. Have been in the glorious State of Texas, and looked down the barrels of two revolvers held by another man. Have gained several pounds of flesh, and lost them again, and begin to have hopes in regard to my moustache."

EDWARD TIFFIN COMEGYS.

WALTER COOK.

Has been practising his profession, in partnership with Mr. Geo. Fletcher Babb, for the last two years.

September 25, 1878, a son, Edward, was born. July 4, 1880, a son, Walter, was born.

EDGAR CORRIE CURTIS.

"After graduating I went to Europe to join my family. At Paris I went into the office of Jas. W. Tucker & Co., bankers.

"I remained there till the war between France and Prussia broke out, and the siege of Paris prevented my coming into town from Versailles, where my family was passing the summer. Passed the winter of the siege in Versailles, among the Prussians. At the end of the siege and Commune my family went back to Paris, and I returned to America. Not knowing what to do, I entered the office of Messrs. Peabody & Stearns, architects, to see what architecture was like.

"Finding it to my taste, and, after passing a couple of years in various offices, I sailed again for Paris in 1874, and studied the fine-art part of my profession with Mr. Emil Vaudremer. Returning to Boston in 1878, I took an office, and am now at No. 60 Devonshire street, as architect and internal decorator, and am as busy as a sailor in a gale of wind. Am a member of Boston Society of Architects since February, 1881."

RUFUS CUTLER CUSHMAN.

During the past three years has been actively engaged in Boston in his business as a sugar and molasses broker.

February 1, 1880, started for himself, under the firm name of R. C. Cushman & Co.

HERBERT DUNNING CUTLER.

He writes: "In reply to your circular I would say that the past three years have been eventful, most happily so, with me. Nov. 1, 1879, I resigned my position with Messrs. C. T. Raynold & Co., of Chicago, as also my position as Adj. of 1st Regt. Inf. I.N.G., which I had held the year previous, and associating myself with Mr. Chas. Campbell, moved to this city (Kansas City, Mo)., and started in business Jan'y 1st, 1880, intending to make here my home. March 31st, 1880, I married, at Chicago, Miss Ella Louise Goodridge, of that city, the eldest daughter of Mrs. Charlotte H. Goodridge (née Miss Charlotte Helen Wheeler), widow of Mr. Charles Lowell Goodridge, formerly of Boston."

WILLIAM EVERETT CUTTER.

He writes: "I am still engaged in the manufacture of copperas and Venetian red, in Worcester, with no changes to make note of in my business, except that last year we built new red mills to accommodate our increased business in Venetian red. August, 1880, I was elected a member of the Association for the Advancement of Science.

"August 5, 1878, I was married, at Jamaica Plain, Mass., to Martha M., daughter of Paul F. and Maria G. Folsom."

JAMES ALBERT DODGE.

He writes: "I am now living in Minneapolis, and am engaged as Professor of Chemistry in the University of Minnesota, located in this place. As your last report mentions my study in Europe and return from there in 1878, I will state that I found in that year a position to teach. I obtained an appointment as professor of Natural Science in an Ohio College, viz., Baldwin University, at Berea, O. I remained in that position for two years with a moderate salary. In the summer of 1880 I was successful in my candidature for the Professorship of Chemistry in the University of Minnesota, which had recently become vacant. I seem to have a fair prospect of retaining this position."

CHARLES NORMAN FAY.

Residence, Chicago. Since 1877, has held the position of General Manager of the Chicago Telephone Company. Became General Manager of the Bell Telephone Co., of Illinois, in May, 1879, after closing the bankrupt estate of A. B. Meeker & Co., and held that position until reorganization of the company.

ARTHUR IRVING FISKE.

His occupation continues to be teaching Greek in the Boston Latin School. Visited Europe in the summer of 1879.

December 25, 1879, was married, at Holliston, Mass., to Hattie A. Mowry, of that town, daughter of D. C. and Mary A. Mowry.

AUSTEN GEORGE FOX.

Continues his residence and the practice of his profession in New York.

WILLIAM HENRY FRENCH.

Died at Nordhoff, California, June 24, 1878, from dropsy of the heart.

The following letters contain such facts as I have in regard to him : —

H. K. Spaulding, under date of January 13, 1879, writes : " I enclose all that is left of poor French, of '69. He came out here two years ago ; spent several weeks in San Francisco, then went south, and settled down to the practice of his profession and the raising of oranges ; the following dry season nearly ruined him, as he lost his entire first investment ; he wrote me often, but letters suddenly ceased about six months ago ; I knew not why until Severance informed me, on New Year's day, of his death. The letter enclosed was written in reference to a special request of mine to the postmaster of the little village where he lived.

" You will perceive that his widow has become a resident of Boston."

The enclosed letter referred to is as follows : —

" I recognize your name as a correspondent of Dr. W. H. French, as he lived with me several months previous to his marriage with Miss Nettie Fisher, of this place. Dr. French died June 24, 1878, from dropsy of the heart, a complaint of which his father also died. He had been attending a patient in a low condition, suffering from pneumonia, and being over-anxious he did too much, and just as his patient was in a fair way to recover he was suddenly taken sick and died after ten days. Dr. Eddy, of San Buenaventure, attended.

" Previous to his illness his instability and sudden collapses, after extra exertion, induced me to believe that he was a chronic sufferer. His wife went to Boston, 547 Washington street, after his death.

" His character and reputation were of the best ; his pecuniary circumstances were of the poorest, I regret to say. We missed him very much. As a surgeon he was unusually successful."

In accordance with the rule of the class, the following notice, prepared by J. C. Bartlett, was read at the Commencement Meeting of the class, June, 1879: —

" William H. French went to California in October, 1876. He first went to San Francisco for a few weeks, and from there to Santa Barbara, where he remained some time, visiting many places in the neighborhood, hoping to find some pleasant town in which to settle as a physician.

" He at last decided on Nordhoff, a town of about six hundred inhabitants, situated in the Ojah Valley. It is about four hundred and seventy-five miles south of San Francisco, and thirty south-west of Santa Barbara, and fifteen miles from the coast. The town is a great resort for invalids.

" Soon after settling there he purchased fifty acres of land which he planted partly with fruit-trees and partly with grain.

" September 5, 1877, he was married to Carrie A. Fisher, of Nordhoff.

" He succeeded excellently as a physician, and his practice constantly increased till the time of his last sickness.

" In June, 1878, he attended a patient who was very sick with pneumonia, and by constantly attending the patient for seven days and nights, he became entirely exhausted, and contracted pneumonia himself, which attacked his heart and caused the sac which holds the fluid around the heart to break, causing immediate death on June 25th, after a sickness of eleven days.

" He was buried in Nordhoff.

" W. H. French was too little known by the majority of his classmates, but he knew them all well, being a keen, though quiet observer of character. No one appreciated more than he, and no one praised more generously and heartily the achievements, whether literary or muscular, of any classmate.

" Not caring to enter the lists himself for high honors, he watched with impartial eye the emulous efforts of others, and praised or blamed with the discrimination of a well-balanced mind. Beyond doing well as a student, to whom had been given good natural ability, and maintaining a high character, founded on the golden rule, he was not ambitious for himself, and supplied the place of self-love with love for his friends and devotion to his class.

"His life, after he left college, was saddened by the loss of his mother and father, and by severe sickness, which weakened a constitution never very robust.

"But he never lost heart, and uncomplaining he fought on against sorrow and sickness and disappointment, to fit himself for life's work as a physician. He had succeeded, and the morning of a happier life had just dawned, when the sun of promise was suddenly overspread by the black death-cloud.

"His life was a model of unselfishness, fortitude, patience, courageous determination, and endurance to the end. His trials may serve to make ours seem like 'light affliction which is but for a moment,' while his untimely death may remind us of the uncertainty of the number of our working days."

The following is the account of his own life, written by French at the time of graduation, June, 1869:—

"I was born in the year of our Lord 1848, in the month of April, on the 14th day; my birthplace is Laconia, Belknap County, New Hampshire. The present town of Laconia then formed part of the township of Meredith, and the village was called Meredith Bridge. In 185—the township of Laconia was taken off from Meredith, and the village was named Laconia. My father's name is Henry J. French. At the time of my birth he kept a store in the village, keeping the usual variety of goods to be found in a country store. The past few years he has devoted himself to the raising of fruit. He has lived since 1848, and is still living, in the house in which I was born. My mother's name before marriage was Judith C. Tilton. Her father's name is James P. Tilton; her mother's name is Mary G. Tilton. Of my ancestors I know very little. They originally came from England, on both sides; on my father's side, only three or four generations ago. My grandfather was Samuel French. He lived at Gilmanton, N.H., where he kept a hotel; he is now dead. My grandfather, on my mother's side, is James P. Tilton, who is now living at Sanbornton Bridge, N.H.

"I have always lived at Laconia until I went away to school and college. I passed successfully through the primary stages of my education, and entered Gilford Academy, in Laconia. The Principal was W. L. Melcher, an own cousin on my father's side. I attended school here till March, 1862, when I went to Exeter to enter Phillips Exeter Academy. Finding the class which I proposed to enter too far advanced, I returned home, and in September, 1862, I entered the Junior Class at Exeter. The Principal was Gideon L. Soule, LL.D. He was a good man and a thorough instructor; we all loved and honored him. I spent three years here fitting for college, and I remember no other three years of my life with so much pleasure. I was a member of a religious society called 'The Christian Fraternity,' and of a debating society called 'The Golden Branch.' I have never been engaged in any other occupation or business other than studying. I probably never should have come to college if it had not been for my mother; she was always desirous for me to have as good an education as possible. I had no definite idea of the future; and even after I entered Phillips Academy, I did not know as I should ever come to college. Gradually the idea that I was going to college became fixed in my mind, and I drifted in without thinking of doing anything else.

"I was examined on the 17th and 18th of July, 1865, and became a member of the Freshman Class. The first term began Thursday, Sept. 14, 1865. My age was then 17 years 5 months. I have never been absent during my college course, except for a few days at a time. In my Freshman year I became a member of the 'Christian Brethren,' a religious society of students. John Mason Williams Pratt, of Taunton, Mass., has been my chum through the whole course. We have roomed in Massachusetts Hall, No. 8, during the Freshman year ; Mass., 14, Soph. ; Hollis, 24, Junior, and Holworthy, 23, Senior years. I have never been in the army or navy. My uncle, Albert K. Tilton, served through the late war as Commissary of the 4th N.H.V. ; my uncle, Dr. L. M. Knight, was Surgeon of the 5th N.H.V. ; and my cousin, E. A. Knight, was Hospital Steward of the same regiment.

" My life has been a singularly even one, devoid of all risks, accidents, and the like. I am very fond of music, but am no performer. My plans for life are not formed."

WILLIAM GALLAGHER, JR.

LEWIS BENEDICT HALL.

During the past three years has continued the practice of law in Albany, N.Y.

The following is his answer to the circular:—

"My dear Mister Beal,
I've received your appeal,
That I should reveal,
For woe or for weal,
Whatever I have done,
In earnest or fun—
Whatever I've had,
And was it good or bad!
And what I've written,
And—as to the mitten.
And quite every thing
That a man could bring

To bear on a witness —
 Without the least fitness —
 And against all the rules
 Taught in those schools
 Where culture and art
 Are dear to the heart.
 And all is quite utter,
 Except perhaps butter.
 Well, I see all the fun of it,
 But I'll have none of it.
 I'll just remain as before,
 Nothing less, nothing more.

HENRY MARION HOWE.

He writes: "Spent a year in Europe, from August, 1875, to September, 1876. Shortly after my return I was retained by the heirs of the late Augustus Hemenway to introduce certain metallurgical improvements into their copper smelting works at Caldera, Chili, and to report on certain mining matters and similar work in Chili. I spent about eleven months in this interesting country, leaving New York on May 31st, 1877, and arriving in that city on my return in the autumn of 1878. Shortly after my return I accepted the position of consulting Engineer of the Orford Nickel and Copper Company, capital $1,000,000. After spending some six months in Boston preparing plans of operations, I removed to Capelton, Province of Quebec, Canada, in the spring of 1879. There I organized and took charge of the extensive interests of the company, its mines, smelting works, etc., becoming one of the four directors in June, 1879. From April to October, 1880, I designed and constructed the extensive new smelting works of that company at Eustis, near Capelton, Canada. On November, 20, 1880, this company acquired the copper smelting works at Phoenixville, Penn., and I removed there to organize them. In March, 1881, I removed to New York city to design and construct the smelting and refining works of the same company, which I am still occupied in erecting at Bergen Point, New Jersey, still remaining in charge of the works at Phoenixville, and vibrating between the two establishments.

"In addition to the above undertakings, I have done a large amount of varied professional work.

"In February, 1879, I became senior vice-president of the American Institute of Mining Engineers, occupying this position for two years.

"I have written and presented to the American Institute of Mining Engineers the following papers:—

"October, 1876: 'Thoughts on the Thermic Curves of Blast Furnaces.'

"February, 1877: On the nomenclature of iron and steel.

"October, 1878: On a direct process in copper smelting.

"August, 1880: On two new processes for the extraction of nickel from its ores."

HENRY SALTONSTALL HOWE.

He writes: "Continued at Fall River until January 1, 1880, when I was appointed agent of the Pepperell Manufacturing Company and Laconia Company at Biddeford, Maine, which positions I still hold.

"July 28, 1879, at Fall River, Mass., a daughter, Susan Bradley, was born.

"February 22, 1881, at Biddeford, Maine, a son, Dudley Rogers, was born."

HENRY HOWLAND.

Was graduated at the Harvard Law School in June, 1878, and spent the next six months in the office of Messrs. Jewell, Field & Shepard, of Boston. Was admitted to the Suffolk bar in February, 1879. Has been practising law at Boston since then. Was Instructor in Torts at the Harvard Law School for the years 1879-1880 and 1880-1881, and was appointed Assistant United States Attorney Jan. 1, 1881.

EUGENE MALCOLM JOHNSON.

He writes : "My previous record must stand without alteration so far as I can see. Items from one to ten, inclusive, are like the replies to the directory canvasser, 'same as before,' in my case."

ALFRED GOODALE LAMSON.

He writes : "I am still practising law in Lowell ; am still of sound mind (as evinced by the fact that I am still unmarried), and have nothing beyond the ordinary experiences of a professional life to report."

WARREN ANDERSON LOCKE.

"Left Hamburg, Germany, for America, in October, 1878, and came at once to Cambridge, where I still reside, following music as a profession. Was organist of St. John's Church, Boston Highlands, from December, 1878, to December, 1879, since then have been organist at First Parish, Cambridge. In January, 1880, was chosen director of the Cambridge Choral Club.

"October 10, 1878, was married at Hamburg, Germany, to Madeline, daughter of the Rev. C. F. Weidemann, Chaplain of the Church of England in that city.

"July 17, 1879, a son, Charles Warren, was born.

"November 16, 1880, a son, Henry Weidemann, was born."

ALDEN PORTER LORING.

Continued the practice of law up to 1879, when he left it without regret and engaged in the telephone business, in which connection he visited Europe last year.

June 13, 1878, was married to Alice M. Mason, of Braintree, Mass., daughter of Alverdo and Sarah M. Mason.

His wife died July 10, 1878.

FRANCIS LOW.

Died of consumption May 5, 1879.

The following notice, written by one of his friends, was read at Commencement, 1879 :—

"Francis Low died of consumption, May 5, 1879, on his journey from San Francisco to Boston, while the railway car in which he lay was in motion near Rose Creek, ten miles from the station of Winnemucca, in the State of Nevada. His age was thirty-one years five months and three days.

"Since he was graduated he has spent the larger part of his time in the business carried on by Americans and Englishmen in Chinese and Japanese ports.

"He lived in Cambridge until the autumn of 1869, when he went to Europe, and, having spent nearly a year in Italy and on the Continent, established himself, in September or October, 1870, in London, there to prepare himself for the business he was to carry on in Japan.

"While in London he became a member of the London Rowing Club, and for some time lived at Putney, with two or three other rowing men. He took part in some of the races of the club at Henley and other places.

"Besides rowing he took exercise constantly, either in the gymnasium, or skating, walking, or riding the bicycle or horse.

"Early in the year 1872 he left London and went by way of the United States to Yokohama. Reaching Yokohama, June 23, 1872, he remained there more than a year in the house of Messrs. Augustine Heard & Co., of Shanghai. While in Yokohama he was constantly employed by his business and out-door sports, such as boating, walking, running, and shooting.

"In October, 1873, somewhat reluctantly, but hoping to do more valuable service, he took charge of the agency of Messrs. Heard & Co., at Kobi, a small place on Hiogo Bay. Here he lived until he left Japan for this country, returning to Yokohama early in the year 1878.

"In January, 1876, he ceased to be an agent of Heard & Co., and became a partner in the firm of Fearon, Low & Co.

"While in Kobi he acted as Belgian consul, and exercised some magisterial functions, requiring more than ordinary commercial knowledge in their performance. Twice he came to the Atlantic coast from Japan, and returned after a few months' absence each time; the last time to Yokohama, reaching there in April, 1878.

"He lived in Yokohama until December, 1878, when he gave up his business and went to San Gabriel Valley, thirteen miles from Los Angeles, in California, to regain his health. For three years he had clearly understood that he had ill health to contend with, and he submitted manfully and cheerfully to the struggle for life.

"During the last few months his decline was very rapid, but his letters show a cheerfulness that, though often accredited to the disease with which he was afflicted as one of its symptoms, seems so strong, especially when the loneliness of his position is considered, that one cannot but believe that it was solely the result of his courage.

"For years the few remaining members of his family were widely scattered, and even as long ago as our Sophomore year his quiet, affectionate nature at times longed for some stronger relation than that of ordinary friendship, which should give his calm and almost speechless sadness and joy better opportunity for giving expression and receiving sympathy.

"A calm, affectionate, large-minded man.

"What was said of him in our Junior year was not far from true of his life. 'Frank towards all, Low in his own esteem,' but not so low as to leave him without proper self-respect, else his high standard of morals might have been degraded by contact with men in foreign lands or in our own, who are reckless of moral distinctions, unless they are urged upon their attention by some extraordinary force.

"Happy as he was in his love of nature, out-door life, and health-giving sports, it seems almost incredible that his body, which presented such personal beauty to our sight, can have yielded to disease; but it being so, let us remember Frank Low in the simple way that he would wish to be remembered (without any ostentatious eulogy) as a simple, open-hearted friend."

The following is his own account of his life, written at graduation, June, 1869:—

"Born in the year one thousand eight hundred and forty-seven, on the second day of December, at Jamaica Plain, Massachusetts.

"Son of Francis Low, of Gloucester, and Susan Gilchrist, of Charlestown, New Hampshire.

"Francis Low, born February 8, 1806, son of John Low, of Gloucester.

"John Low, born July 3, 1760, son of Stephen Low, also of Gloucester.

"The first of the name was Thomas Low, who came from England between 1634 and 1639, and settled in Ipswich, Mass.

"My grandfather, John Low, went out as a privateer in the war of the Revolution of 1775, and lost his leg in action.

"His grandfather, Philemon Warner, commanded a company at the battle of Bunker Hill, and continued in the American service till after the retreat from Long Island.

"I am the youngest of six children.

"My father was formerly a member of the firm of Low, Ball & Co., jewellers, Washington street. He died on the 20th of December, 1855.

"My maternal grandparents were James Gilchrist, of Medford, sea-captain, and Susan Wyman.

"I have always lived in Jamaica Plain up to the time of entering. Fitted for college at the High School of that place, under Mr. Daniel B. Hagar, and the last year under Mr. Frank V. Balch, as private tutor. Entered college as Fresh-Sophomore, at the age of eighteen.

"Never have been absent for any length of time during my college course.

"Have been a member of the Institute of 1770, the 'Hasty Pudding Club,' and several secret societies.

"The first half of Sophomore year roomed alone in College House, 18. Second term Sophomore, chummed with Mr. Archibald Murray Howe, Stoughton, 30; and Junior and Senior years with Mr. Edward Read, in Massachusetts, 26, and Hollis, 23.

"Intend to lead a mercantile life."

JOHN WAYLAND McBURNEY.

Continued in charge of the Boston Elastic Fabric Co.'s works, at Chelsea, Mass., until April, 1881, when he resigned the position and entered the firm of Barnes, McBurney & Co., stock-brokers, 28 Congress street, Boston.

April 22, 1879, a daughter, May Ruth, was born.

WILLIAM DAVIS MACKINTOSH.

Remained at the Worcester High School until September, 1880, when he removed to Amesbury, Mass., to take charge of the High School in that place.

September, 1880, was married to Annie L. Jones, of Jericho, Vt.

EDWARD HAVEN MASON.

He writes: "Reside at Newton Centre, Mass. Continue to practise law. Removed my office to 82 Devonshire street, Boston, in May, 1879. No journeys of any importance. Made a business trip, May, 1880, with some railroad people, to New Mexico, visiting Santa Fé and several Indian pueblos.

"Have been Chairman of the Republican Ward and City Committee, of Newton, for the last three years.

"June 15, 1878, daughters, Edna Sarah, Ella Sylvina, were born.

"At the last Class Dinner, June, 1878, when only sixty-eight children of the class had been reported, and one more was wanted to make the magic number, I could have reported the vacancy filled but that the report would have defeated its object.

"I claim the sixty-ninth child anyhow, even if I made assurance doubly sure."

JOHN ROGERS MASON.

Continues the practice of law in Bangor, Me.

GEORGE EDMANDS MERRILL.

Still holds his pastorate in Salem, Mass.

His principal literary labor, besides the regular work of his profession, has been the preparation of a book entitled "The Story of the Manuscripts," a work upon the manuscript authorities of the New Testament, published in May, 1881, by D. Lothrop & Co., Boston.

September 28, 1878, his wife, Carrie A., died after a very brief illness.

ROYAL WHITMAN MERRILL.

He writes: "I remained on the editorial staff of the 'North American,' Philadelphia, until February 5, 1881, when I resigned to assume the financial editorship of the 'Press,' in the same city, whose office is directly across the street from the 'North American.' I am now filling that position.

"I was married in Boston, April 13, 1880, by the Rev.

Phillips Brooks, to Miss Elizabeth Parker Horsman, daughter of the late Eben R. and Mary (Shaw) Horsman, of Boston."

FRANK DAVIS MILLETT.

He writes: "In June, 1878, I was appointed to represent America as a juror in the department of Fine Arts of the Paris International Exhibition. After the award of the recompenses I went to Normandy, in the vicinity of Honfleur, where I remained until November. Among various canvases I covered during that period I may mention one — 'Philosophy in Summer' — which was afterwards exhibited in the Royal Academy, London, and in the Boston Art Club. The winter of 1878-79 I spent in my studio in Paris, and painted, besides several portraits, two pictures, one, — 'Les Pacificateurs,' exhibited in the French salon of 1879, and afterwards stolen; the other, — 'A Bashi Bazouk,' exhibited in the Royal Academy of the same year, and the following season in the Academy of Design in New York, where it was sold to John Jacob Astor, Esq.

"On the 11th of March, 1879, I was married, at the Marié of the 18th arrondissement of Paris, to Elizabeth Greely Merrill, daughter of Horatio and Sarah Whitman Merrill, eldest sister of Royal Whitman Merrill, of our class.

"The spring and summer of 1879 were passed in England, where I painted several unimportant pictures. In August we returned to this country, and settled in East Bridgewater. On January 28, 1880, was born a daughter, Kate. The spring and summer of the same year I passed in the practice of my profession, and painted, among other pictures, an historical genre scene, — 'Baby Worship' — hung in the recent exhibition of the Academy of Design in New York. In the autumn I took a temporary studio in New York, where I painted several portraits, the most important of which, — 'Miss Kate Field' — was exhibited with the above-mentioned picture. During the winter I was engaged, with another artist, in designing the frieze for the veterans' room of the Seventh Regiment armory in New York, and also made some cartoons for stained glass. All my spare time has been devoted to the study of costume, and I can report nothing important in the way of literary effort during the past three years. Since November last I have delivered ten lectures on the costume of the Ancients before the School of Drawing and Painting in Boston, two before the Philological Society in Cambridge, one before the Union League Club in New York, and several in different places on the Russo-Turkish war. I designed and prepared the costumes for the Cedipus Tyrannus, performed in the Sanders Theatre. On the 11th of May I was elected an associate of the National Academy of Design in New York.

"My summer address is East Bridgewater, Mass, and my winter studio is No. 578 Fifth avenue, New York."

WILLIAM PEPPERRELL MONTAGUE.

Since last report has lived in Chelsea and continued practising law in Boston.

July 2, 1880, a daughter, Helen Beatrice, was born in Chelsea, Mass., who died December 26, 1880.

ROBERT SWAIN MORISON*.

"He writes: Residence, Peterborough, N.H., where I have been the past three years, still kept by ill health from active work. Now, however, I am much better than heretofore.

"August 5, 1879, as on, George Abbot Morison, was born.

"In the last report, in the sentence 'all of Meadville,' the 'all' should be omitted, my wife's mother having died before her family came to Meadville."

WILLIAM OXNARD MOSELEY, JR.

Died near Zermatt, Switzerland, August 14, 1879. The following notice was read at Commencement, 1880: —

" William Oxnard Moseley, Jr., was born in Bedford street, Boston, October 30, 1848.

" His father, Rev. William O. Moseley, now resides in Newburyport; his mother died when he was seven years old.

" After her death he lived in St. Augustine, Fla., where he attended school.

" In 1859 he entered the Boston Public Latin School, and there distinguished himself as a public speaker, receiving the highest prizes for oratory.

" He completed the six years' course, and immediately entered Harvard College, from which he graduated with credit, and undecided regarding his future profession or calling, but strongly inclined to mercantile pursuits.

" He, however, spent most of the following five years in foreign lands. The Second Triennial Class Report contains an interesting account of his extensive travels.

" In Sept., 1874, he returned to Boston and entered the Harvard Medical School, resuming the studies which he began the preceding winter in Paris.

He became more and more interested in the study of his chosen profession, and was appointed to several honorable positions.

" In August, 1877, he became House Physician at the Mass. General Hospital, and there showed marked ability, rare judgment, and great faithfulness in the discharge of the duties imposed upon him.

" Dr. Whittemore, the Superintendent, has repeatedly referred to the satisfactory manner in which his duties were always performed and to the kindness he invariably showed to the patients and to all with whom he came in contact.

" The physicians at the hospital bear willing testimony to his genial manners and courteous, gentlemanly ways, and also to the maturity of thought and judgment manifested, which gave promise that he would become a brilliant member of the coming medical generation.

"In August, 1878, he sailed for Europe, intending to remain two years, spending the greater portion of the time in the study of medicine, but reserving the summer months for travel in Switzerland, he being an enthusiastic member of the English Alpine Club.

"Early last summer he left Vienna, and, in company with Mr. Alfred E. Craven, accomplished many difficult peaks and passes.

"On the night of August 13 he and Mr. Craven left Zermatt for the summit of the Matterhorn, which they reached at nine o'clock the following morning.

"A few hours later, on the descent of this mountain, in a place where he did not anticipate danger, he lost his footing and fell.

"He is buried in the little church-yard at Zermatt, by the graves of those who lost their lives in the first ascent of the Matterhorn.

"His friends, who had seen him always prepared for emergencies, cool and self-reliant, could hardly believe it possible that he could make a misstep.

"In the summer of 1874 he arranged a pedestrian trip through Switzerland and the Tyrol, in which I was his companion. It was successfully carried out, and proved that he was a thorough traveller, and well experienced in Alpine climbing.

"His self-reliance and good common-sense were of great service to him in his profession.

"He appeared to those who knew him well to be cultivating his talents and opportunities to the utmost, knowing that he could obtain high excellence in his profession, and thereby be of great service to his fellow-men.

"All who knew him were his firm friends, and there are many who mourn his untimely loss.

"Rarely has one with such bright prospects been so prematurely cut off."

The following account will prove of interest, taken from the London "Times":—

"To the Editor of the London Times:—

"You will learn, with the most unfeigned regret, that a season marked by an unusual number of successful ascents has now a far sadder characteristic. It appears, from the particulars subjoined, and which have been gathered from the surviving but sorrowing companion of a first-rate cragsman, that Mr. Alfred E. Craven, of London, and Mr. W. O. Moseley, of Boston, arranged to make the ascent of the Matterhorn. They had as guides Peter Ruby and Christian Inabnit, both of Grindenwald, and both of whom had accompanied them on several arduous, but interesting, expeditions. The party left the Monte Rosa hotel on Wednesday night (August 13) at half-past ten o'clock, intending to make the ascent without sleeping at the cabin, which is about seven hours' walk from this place. The ascent was accomplished successfully, and after a few minutes' rest the descent began. It appears that when about an hour from the cabin, both gentlemen took off the rope, as they had passed from a precipitous snow-field to the rocks. Mr. Moseley, unroped, was standing on a narrow ledge of rock, when, owing, in all probability, to a thin coating of ice which covered it, he slipped, and Mr. Craven had the horror of seeing his companion whirling through the air for some thousand of feet and then disappear, he believes, among the rocks at the base of the Matterhorn, and which also skirt its glacier.

"Mr. Seiler, the proprietor of the Zermatt hotels, ever ready to render assistance when required, is most anxious to send out a searching party to go over the Furggen and Matterhorn glaciers; but to-morrow (Friday, August 15) is a high festa, and as all the guides attend mass at half-past 5 A.M., they are not at liberty until after that hour, which is too late to undertake the search, in consequence of the ava-lanches of falling stones from the Matterhorn after sunrise. It is therefore arranged that a body of guides leave this to-morrow evening, sleep at the Hörnli, and at daybreak on Saturday morning the melancholy search will be begun. It is fearful to think how fruitless it may be. Mr. Craven will accompany the party. It is but right to add that some say the body has been seen on the Furggen glacier from the Riffel hotel by the aid of the large telescope. This, however, is very unlikely. Will you allow me to say that both gentlemen are members of the Alpine club; both, like many other experienced climbers, have frequently removed the rope when engaged in rock-work; both understood each other's powers perfectly, having climbed together for the last three seasons. The ascent of the Matterhorn was Mr. Moseley's thirty-first peak this year. Mr. Moseley was unmarried, but he was an only son.

"Mr. H. D. Gardner, of London, accompanied by his guides, Joseph and Gabriel Taugwalder, met Messrs. Craven and Moseley on the Matterhorn, and spoke to Mr. Moseley but ten minutes before the latter fell. I need not say that the utmost sympathy is felt here for the bereaved parents and friends of one who is spoken of in the warmest terms as an amiable and a brave man.

"Most truly yours,

"WILLIAM LEFROY, M.A.,

"Incumbent of St. Andrew's, Liverpool, English Chaplain, Zermatt.

"Hotel du Mont Cervin, Zermatt, Aug. 14."

The following is taken from the London "Saturday Review" of August 30, 1879:—

"It appears that on Wednesday, the 13th of this month, Dr. Moseley left Zermatt to ascend the Matterhorn, in company with Mr. A. E. Craven, an English traveller, and of the guides Peter Rubi and Christian Inäbnit, of Grindelwald, both as skilful and trustworthy men as could be found. It was the intention of the travellers not to sleep at the refuge which there is on the eastern face of the mountain, but to make the ascent and descent in one day. They started, therefore, at half-past ten in the evening, and must have accomplished a great deal of their climb in the dark, as they reached the summit at nine o'clock on Thursday morning. During their upward course Mr. Moseley complained several times of the rope as being an impediment and utterly unnecessary. Turning to descend, after a short halt on the top, they passed without difficulty over the worst part of the route, where there is a chain fixed to help travellers. This Mr. Moseley would not use. The descent was continued until a point on the eastern face of the mountain, described as 'about three-quarters of an hour' above the hut, was reached, when Mr. Moseley wanted to take off the rope. The others persuaded him not to do this; but in a few minutes he became extremely impatient, and took it off. Rubi, the leading guide, who had before urged that it should be kept on, now yielded, and the rest of the party were untied, and they then descended very rapidly. 'About twenty minutes from the hut,' says the writer in the "Times," 'they had to cross a projecting piece of rock with a smooth surface. Rubi crossed first and planted his axe, so as to give Mr. Moseley, who followed, a firm foothold. Mr. Moseley, however, declined assistance, and placing one hand upon the rock endeavored to vault over it. At this moment his foot slipped, the axe flew out of his hand, and he fell from the rock on to some steep snow beneath it, down which he slipped on his back, and nearly succeeded in stopping himself with his elbows. Unhappily the snow was frozen, and he fell on to the rocks beneath. Realizing his position, he turned round with a great effort and tried to grasp the rocks with his hands; but the velocity he had then attained was too great, and he fell from rock to rock until he disappeared from view. Mr. Craven and the guides returned to Zermatt at 7 P.M., having been on foot over twenty hours. The body was found, on the following Sunday, by Peter Knubel and three of the Tangwalds, at a point two thousand feet below that where the slip occurred, and was brought into Zermatt for burial."

The following is his own account of his life, written at graduation, June, 1869 :—

"I was born on Monday, October 30, 1848, at No. 33 Bedford street, Boston, Mass. My father, for whom I was named, is a Unitarian clergyman, and a graduate of Harvard in 1836; he is at present residing at Newburyport, Mass.; my mother's name before marriage was Caroline Louisa Fairbanks, the daughter of Hon. Stephen Fairbanks, of Boston, and Abby M. Parker of Dedham, Mass.; my mother died of consumption September 11, 1856, and is buried at Mt. Auburn; I am the only son, although I had a younger brother, who died February 10, 1855, when only one year old; my father was again married January 15, 1868, to Julia Maria Hale, of Newburyport, Mass.; I have one sister Caroline Louisa Moseley, at present about five months old; my father has twice saved persons from drowning, and during the summer of 1867 he was prominent in saving the life of a young lady at Mt. Desert when a boat-load of persons were lost.

"The family came from Lancashire, England, and have been traced back to Ernald de Moseley, Lord of Moseley, in the time of King John; Sir Nicholas Moseley was Lord Mayor of London in 1599; he died in 1612.

"The first settler in this country was John Moseley, who came from Lancashire and settled in Dorchester, then Mattapan, in 1630; he was admitted as a freeman in 1638, and died in 1661, leaving three children; his son John moved to Winsor, Conn., and died there, leaving eight children; his son Thomas lived in Dorchester and died 1706, leaving ten children; his son Ebenezer was born in 1673, and died at Dorchester in 1740; he was twice married and had sixteen children; his son Samuel was born in 1708, graduated at Harvard in 1729, and became a minister in Windham; he died in 1791, at the age of 83; he was twice married and had twelve children; his son Ebenezer was born in 1741, graduated at Yale in 1763, was ordained to the ministry in 1769, married the sister of Gov. Strong, of Northampton, in 1773, and died in 1825, leaving four children; he was a captain in the Revolutionary war, and was present at the battle of Bunker Hill, serving in Col. Israel Putnam's regiment; his son Ebenezer was born Nov. 21st, 1781, graduated at Yale in 1802, and settled as a lawyer in Newburyport, Mass.; June 17, 1810, he married Mary Ann Oxnard, of Portland; he died Aug. 28, 1854, aged 72 years 9 months, leaving six children, of whom four are now living, viz.: Edward Strong Moseley, born June 22, 1813, who is at present a Calcutta merchant, and residing in Newburyport; William Oxnard Moseley, my father, who is also living in Newburyport; he was born April 27, 1815; Lucy Jones Moseley, born July 5, 1817, and married to Rev. A. B. Muzzey; she is at present living in Cambridge; Mary Ann Moseley, born October 12, 1824; she married O. H. Perry, son of the noted commodore, and now lives in Andover, Mass. My ancestors who have graduated at college are as follows:—

“1665, Harvard, Jabez Fox, my great-great-great-great-grandfather.

“1698, Harvard, John Fox, my great-great-great-grandfather.

“1727, Harvard, Jabez Fox, my great-great-grandfather.

“1729, Harvard, Samuel Moseley, my great-great-grandfather.

“1763, Yale, Ebenezer Moseley, my great-grandfather.

“1767, Harvard, Edward Oxnard, my great-grandfather.

“1802, Yale, Ebenezer Moseley, my grandfather.

1836, Harvard, William Oxnard Moseley, my father.

"I resided in Boston until I was almost eight years old. On the 4th of October, 1856, I sailed for St. Augustine, Florida, where I attended school for more than two years. During this period I lived with my aunt, a Mrs. Anderson. I returned to Boston June 28, 1859, and entered the Public Latin School in September, 1859. I spent six years at this institution, which was under the care of Mr. Francis Gardner, and entered Harvard in July, 1865. I have always intended to come to college, and on entering was not quite seventeen years old. I have not been absent during my college course except for a fortnight in my Freshman year, when I was laid up with an attack of pleurisy. While at the Latin School I received a first and second prize for declamation, and also a first prize for an English poem. Since I have been in college I have been connected with the H. H. Society, into which I was initiated in March, 1868. I have held the office of Secretary in this society for the space of one term.

"In my Freshman year I roomed at the house of A. B. Muzzey, in Berkeley street, and chummed with my cousin, C. W. Moseley, of Newburyport. He left college early in the Sophomore year, and is now in the Calcutta business in Boston. During my Sophomore year I roomed alone at No. 21 College House. For two years I have chummed with F. W. Russell, of Winchendon, Mass., and we have occupied, during our Junior year, Stoughton No. 22, and during our Senior year Hollis No. 15.

"I can hardly say that I have any particular fondness for any study, but think I am more interested in music than in anything else. With regard to my plans of life, I am still undecided, but, in all probability, shall travel abroad for a year or so and then try my luck in business."

JAMES JEFFERSON MYERS.

Still resides in Cambridge, and practises law at No. 39 Court street, Boston.

WILLIAM HUNTER ORCUTT.

He writes : " My residence and occupation are the same now as stated in your third triennial.

" May 18, 1880, I was appointed Special Justice of the Cambridge Police Court. Was reëlected a member of the Cambridge School Committee last fall, to serve for three years from January, 1881."

FREDERIC PALMER.

He writes : " At the time of making out the last triennial report I was settled as a Congregational minister in Revere, Mass. I left there in June, 1878, and entered the ministry of the Episcopal Church. For about a year I was assistant rector of Emmanuel Church, Boston. Then for another year I had charge of the parish of Lonsdale, R.I., in the absence of the rector; and now I am pleasantly settled as rector of Jenkintown, one of the suburbs of Philadelphia.

" Our only child, Frederic Palmer, Jr., was born in Brookline, October 17, 1878."

FRANCIS GREENWOOD PEABODY.

He writes : " Two of the last three years I have spent in health-hunting; 1878-9, in Egypt, Greece, and Southern Europe.

" 1879-80 in southern California.

" In October, 1879, I resigned my charge as minister of the First Parish Church, Cambridge, and in September, 1880, I became lecturer in Ethics and Homiletics in the Harvard Theological School.

" Since our last report I have written : ' The New Theology,' Unit. Rev., April, 1879; ' Egypt and the Powers,' Unit. Rev., August, 1879; ' Christianity in Egypt,' Unit. Rev., September, 1879; ' The First Glimpse of Historical Religion,' Unit. Rev., December, 1879; ' Reports of Committee to visit the Divinity School,' 1878-9, 1879-80; ' History of the Psychology of Religion,' I., II., Unit. Rev., August-September, 1880; 'The Preacher's Opportunity,' Unit. Rev., December, 1880."

HENRY GODDARD PICKERING.

Has continued the practice of law since date of last report.
Present office, 54 Devonshire street, Boston.

CHARLES EVANS POPE.

He writes: "Have been and still am in active practice as a lawyer in Chicago. No journeys of special importance. Was in Boston and New York in December, 1880, and January, 1881."

THOMAS ELIOT POPE.

He writes: "Am still at the Iowa Agricultural College, as Professor of Chemistry; enjoy good health; am contented and prospering.

"May 22, 1879, a daughter, Mary Ritchie, was born.

"July 20, 1880, a daughter, Alice Gordon, was born."

JOHN MASON WILLIAMS PRATT.

"I resigned the pastorate of the Society at Wilmington, Del., November 1, 1880, and resided in Hyde Park, Mass., until January 1, 1881, when I accepted a call to settle as pastor of the Unitarian Society at Pembroke, Mass.

"August 1, 1878, I was married, at Hyde Park, Mass., to Marian E. Ross, daughter of Henry and Elizabeth (Cook) Ross, of Boston.

"November 20, 1879, a daughter, Alice Kinsell, was born."

HENRY WARE PUTNAM.

Has continued the practice of law in Boston.

October 1, 1878, resigned the position of Assistant City Solicitor, of Boston.

June 14, 1879, his wife died.

FRANCIS RAWLE.

Continues the practice of law in Philadelphia.

Present office, 402 Walnut street.

Residence, Coulter street, Germantown.

EDWARD READ.

Continued in business in Boston until March, 1881, when he sailed for San Francisco in the ship "Sachem."

HENRY RICHARDS.

Has continued in the paper business at Gardiner, Maine. The statement in previous report that he had abandoned architecture was erroneous. He still devotes some time to it, and during the past year has been quite actively and profitably engaged in this branch of his business.

CHARLES WARREN RICHARDSON.

He writes: "I am residing in Salem, as for most of the time since I graduated, and have practised law here since May 7, 1872, the date of my admission to the bar.

"The public offices I have held have been unimportant.

"I was commissioned as a Master in Chancery for the County of Essex, about two years ago, and last year (1880) I was a member of the City Council of Salem."

FREDERICK WILLIAM RUSSELL.

Has remained in Winchendon, Mass., in active practice since the last report.

For outside matters, he has done some literary work, lectured, managed schools, etc.

February 6, 1881, a daughter, Rowena Mary, was born.

NATHANIEL MORTON SAFFORD.

He writes : " There is nothing to add in my case to the last report. I'm not married, so can't give you the names of my wife's parents ; if I ever find myself inclined to enter that state, I'll find out their appellations at once and give you the benefit.

" I have made no journeys of consequence — stay ! I have visited a spot which few have ever seen, — I went one day to Chelsea."

WILLIAM MITCHELL SARGENT.

I learn as follows : Sargent continued the practice of law in Portland until September, 1880, when he withdrew from it, and devoted himself exclusively to the prosecution of a mining enterprise to be carried on upon the Atrato river, U.S. of Columbia, S.A. The undertaking was one he had long cherished, and he threw himself into it with the utmost enthusiasm. He obtained the charter for the company, by his almost unassisted efforts secured the requisite capital, and gave continued and exacting attention to numberless details in matters of construction and equipment. Induced in part by his unremitting labor, a severe fit of illness attacked him in December, from which he recovered slowly, and he was far from well when he sailed with the party in January. He arrived at Catagena, but without experiencing from the voyage the improvement anticipated, and was too ill to accompany the mining party when it left Catagena, and is expected to return home at the earliest opportunity. This up to date of March 31, 1881.

MARK SIBLEY SEVERANCE.

He writes : " I have little to chronicle since my last report to you. I entered the Central Pacific Railroad in 1879, and have been with the company ever since, in various offices. Have travelled many thousand of miles on the western coast since last writing. Belong to Harvard Club of San Francisco.

November 1, 1879, I was married in San Francisco to Annie, daughter of Hiram and Lydia S. Crittenden, formerly of St. Louis, Mo., and Great Barrington, Mass."

GEORGE RUSSELL SHAW.

October 4, 1878, a son, Hollis Humnewell Shaw, was born.

JOSEPH LYMAN SILSBEE.

Continues the practice of his profession as an architect in Syracuse, N.Y.

April, 1876, a daughter, Charlotte Sedgwick, was born.

October, 1877, a daughter, Margaret, was born.

June, 1879, a son, Joseph Lyman, Jr., was born.

January, 1881, a son, Ralph, was born.

WILLIAM HAMMATT SIMMONS.

Has continued as a physician in Bangor, Me., during the past three years.

NATHANIEL STEVENS SMITH.

He writes: "Was elected a member of the Committee on Admissions of the University Club, at its first meeting in May, 1879, to serve three years.

"Was elected Secretary of the Harvard Club of New York City, at the annual meeting held in January, 1881, to serve one year.

"Have continued the practice of my profession, and have met with such success that I intend to continue in the law.

"I am very sorry that it becomes necessary for me to answer, 'No,' to your question marked '4,' and that answer makes any allusion to 5 and 6 superfluous.

"I wish I had something exciting to write, but circumstances have made that impossible."

WILLIAM ELIOT SPARKS.

He writes : "My prosaic career for the last three years is as follows : —

"July, 1878, sailed for San Francisco, round Cape Horn, in ship Sachem, N. G. Read, captain. Was absent five months, returning overland.

"August, 1879, was appointed treasurer of Cooper Elastic Steel Wheel Company, of Cambridgeport, which office I resigned in October, 1880, when I withdrew from all connection with the firm.

"By the way, I resigned my position as Assistant Superintendent of Mason Machine Works in May, 1878, principally on account of my health, which was the reason of my sea-voyage. At present I am a 'gentleman of leisure.'

"September 27, 1879, was born a boy, named William Mason Sparks, who died October 1, 1879."

LORENZO GORHAM STEVENS.

He writes : "After remaining three years as rector of Trinity Church, St. Stephen, I received a unanimous call to the rectorship of St. Luke's Church, Portland, entering on my new duties November, 1878. We have recently completed a beautiful new church, at a cost of $26,000. There are 1,500 people who belong to St. Luke's parish, and the membership of the Sunday School is 425. My work here is very arduous, but it is greatly lightened by the sympathy and appreciation of a kind people. Several of my sermons on special occasions have been published, and I have edited a hymnal for Sunday schools. Am to be married this summer."

BENJAMIN LOWELL MERRILL TOWER.

Has continued a member of the law firm of Brooks, Ball & Storey, Boston.

July 3, 1878, was married, at Cohasset, Mass., to Eliza Curtis, daughter of Dr. Samuel and Eliza Curtis Kneeland, all of Boston.

June 22, 1879, a son, George Homer, was born.

December 16, 1880, a daughter, Eliza Curtis, was born.

GEORGE CLARK TRAVIS.

Is still living in South Framingham, Mass., and hard at the law. Was admitted to the bar of U. S. Circuit Court, at Boston, March 16, 1881.

March 13, 1879, a son, Howard Currier, was born.

May 10, 1879, a daughter, Helen March, died.

WINSLOW LEWIS TUCKER.

He writes: "At present I am living and practising my profession at No. 11 Ashburton place. For the past two years have been ill from nervous debility, and unable to do much. Now (owing to hospital care), for the last six months I am enabled to again work as before."

SAMUEL EPES TURNER.

He writes: "Residence, until last fall, as usual: Baltimore in winter, and Wareham, Mass., in summer. Occupation, study.

"October 14, 1880, sailed, with my mother, wife, and little daughter, for Hamburg, and passed the fall and winter in North Germany.

"Last Commencement received the degree of Ph. D.

"Have published a translation of 'Life of Charlemagne, by Eginhard.'

"September 14, 1878, was married, in Waltham, Mass., to Mary Louise, daughter of Horatio and Lucy Ann (Tower) Moore.

"September 6, 1879, a daughter, Lucy Cushing Turner, was born."

JOSEPH BANGS WARNER.

Has continued to live in Cambridge, and practise law in Boston, in partnership with James J. Myers, during the past three years.

In the last triennial the name of his wife's father should have been given as Robert Boyd.

WILLIAM SCOLLAY WHITWELL, JR.

He writes: "I am still residing and practising in San Francisco. On Jan. 4, 1879, I set sail in the City of Pekin, as surgeon of the ship, and took a voyage to Japan and China for my health, that being in its usual precarious condition. Visited Yokohama and Tokio. From there went to Hong Kong and Canton. Returned by the same route to San Francisco, where I landed March 26th.

"Am member of the San Francisco County Medical and California State Society. Also member of the San Francisco Obstetrical Society. Am editor of a medical journal, the 'Western Lancet.'

"Am sorry that I cannot meet our classmates at Parker's, but shall remember them all on the day set for the gathering. Greet all heartily for me.

"In August, on the 11th day, 1880, I was married, by the Rev. Horatio Stebbins, to Blanche Louise Bonestell, daughter of Louis Henry and Mary Stone Bonestell."

JAMES WOODWARD WILDER.

He writes: "Residence, Leominster, Mass. Have been in the law office of Hon. C. H. Merriam more or less for the past three years. Justice of the Peace for the county of Worcester. Am connected with, and one of the firm of, Wilder, Paton & Metcalf, manufacturers of combs, jewelry, and buttons, and during the past year acted as Superintendent of the Plymouth Gold Mining Company, and had charge of their mining business at Plymouth, Vt."

GARDNER GOODRICH WILLARD.

Continues the practice of law in Chicago, and writes: "Though not arrived at the money-making point yet, my business is steadily gaining.

"My health is the best."

AUGUSTUS EVERETT WILLSON.

"Has continued the practice of law in Louisville, Ky., the past three years.

"Was nominated, in 1879, as Republican nominee for the Kentucky Senate, 37th District, 3d-7th Wards of Louisville. Made an active canvass and reduced the Democratic majority.

"Besides my regular work, I have written a good deal for the 'Louisville Commercial' during the past two years, solely, however, for what I considered the good of our people, not as an occupation, but only as a volunteer, and generally political articles of republican or radical character. Took an active part in the canvass of 1880, in Indiana, Kentucky, and Pennsylvania.

"February 23, 1879, a son, James Ekin, was born, who died March 2, 1879.

WILLIAM SEAL WINDLE.

He writes: "In answer to your circular, I can only say that during the past three years I have been plodding along at the practise of the law, realizing by degrees the importance of industry and frugality; that I am in good health and spirits, and quite well satisfied with myself and the world.

"I have been admitted to the bar of Chester county, Pa.; of Delaware county, Pa.; to the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania; and to the Circuit Court of the United States for the Eastern District of Pennsylvania."

June 16, 1881, married, at West Chester, Pa., to Mary, daughter of William Butler.

FRANK WOODMAN.

He writes: "I have little to add to the story of my life. My occupation is still the manufacturing of woollen goods, especially stocking yarns, and a reasonable measure of success has rewarded my labors. During the last two years I have held a commission from the State as paymaster of 2d Regt. W. Va. Vols., and have been a director of our Kanawha Valley Bank. Jan. 1st, 1881, I was elected president of the Charleston Gas Light Co., in which I am a small stockholder. I am still unmarried."

HORACE WINSLOW WRIGHT.

He writes: "I continue to reside in Abington, but have not been regularly engaged in preaching since 1876. Having been called to fill some positions in the service of the town three years ago, my time has been largely devoted to the interests attaching to those positions, viz.: President of Public Library from its establishment in 1878, and member of School Committee, now for the third year; the superintendence of each of these departments of public instruction having, through existing circumstances, rested mainly with me.

"The only authorship work I have done has been the school reports of 1879 and 1880 and the library catalogues and reports of 1878-80, which, of course, are merely town documents. I have also prepared and brought to completion ready for publication an index to the 'New Jerusalem Magazine,' 44 vols., covering the period 1828-72, a work probably of 250 pages.

"I am unmarried. My life is too uneventful in its character to present any interesting features for the class report. It falls to me to attend to some of the minor but not unimportant affairs of the public only and to find satisfaction in the sense of being useful rather than honored by elevation."

GERALD WYMAN.

Has continued in Boston during the past three years devoting himself to the care of trust property.

NON-GRADUATES.

WASHINGTON BECKER.

JAMES ARTHUR BEEBE.

Has continued in Boston during the past three years.

FRANK LEWIS FABENS.

Continues in the ice business. Has purchased a large pond in addition to his former place of business and now has large ice privileges both for winter and summer shipments.

ALBERT ELLIOTT FLETCHER.

He writes: "I have nothing to add to the very plain statement of my life which I gave to you three years ago. I am still in the same business in Indianapolis, and as no additions to the family have occurred I suppose the same statement which appeared in the last triennial will suffice."

STILLMAN WILLIS FRENCH.

He writes: "Except birth of children I have not much to add to your printed slip which was enclosed, but would change the order of statements contained therein.

"This city, and also the State, has been flourishing and advancing beyond any of my wildest dreams, business has been good and I have kept in same old ruts as before and have somewhat profited thereby. Have had no time for journeys or for official station even if I could have attained it, except of course, the notary's commission which I have held on account of convenience in my business. Have not contributed to literature nor shall I be able to join you at the Class Dinner, much as I would like to do so.

"My own class feeling is, in the words of your circular, 'still strong and hearty,' but I was with you so short a time, and unfortunate enough to live away from college, that I hardly feel as if I could claim full membership with you.

"If any classmates come to this place I trust they will not fail to see me. It is easy to find me, and my office is in a central location.

"June 22, 1878, a daughter, Adelaide A., was born.

"July 25, 1879, a son, Franklin Gay, was born.

"October 29, 1880, a son (not yet named) was born."

RICHARD THEODORE GREENER.

He writes: "April, 1879, I was elected Dean of the Law Department, Howard University. During that spring became Secretary of the Emigration Society of which Senator Wm. Windom was President, and took active part in the so-called 'Exodus' of the freedmen from the South. I spoke at Philadelphia, New York, and in Boston, organizing societies. In September, at the Saratoga Social Science Congress, I debated the desirability and expediency of this movement with Hon. Frederick Douglass.

"In the fall of 1879 I took part in New York campaign, and later made a Western tour, for the first time lecturing on the 'Exodus.' I went as far West as Junction City, Kan.

"April 9, 1880, I went to West Point to look after the interests of my former pupil in South Carolina, J. C. Whitaker, whose appointment to the Military Academy I had procured.

"In August I was one of the delegates to Republican conference in New York City.

"August 15, 1880, became law clerk to the First Comptroller of the Treasury, resigning my position as Dean of the law department.

"From September to November, 1880, I took part in the campaign, speaking in Virginia, Maryland, Pennsylvania, New York, and Ohio.

"In December presented an argument to the Secretary for a court martial in the Whittaker case, which was granted.

"January 20, 1881, court met in New York City and adjourned to February 3, from which time to present I have been engaged with ex-Gov. D. H. Chamberlain, as one of the counsel for the defence. I was one of the Committee of Thirty on the Inauguration Ceremonies at Washington, March 4, 1881.

"I have been counsel in two important civil trials—one, the Stone murder case, which attracted considerable notice, the other, the Perry extradition case, arising from the attempt to extradite one Perry from District of Columbia to North Carolina on ostensible charge of forgery.

"I am Lieut. G.C. Consistory A. & A.S.R. 33°, Southern Jurisdiction.

"November 26, 1879, a daughter, Belle Marion, was born, and December 20, 1880, another daughter, Ethel, was born.

"I am author of several addresses, the titles of which will be found in the last Register, June, 1881.

"June 6, 1881, I am to deliver the annual address before the students of Lincoln University, Oxford, Penn."

BENJAMIN HODGES.

GEORGE WARD HOLDREDGE.

Continues in Nebraska. Is Superintendent on the Burl. & Mo. Riv. Rd. in Neb.

CHARLES GREEN JACKSON.

ROBERT MEANS LAWRENCE.

He writes: "Since your last report I have continued in practice in Boston.

"May 19, 1879, commissioned major and surgeon First Regiment of Infantry, M.V.M. Am one of the founders of the 'Wells Memorial Workingmen's Club and Institute,' established June 18, 1879, and a director of the 'Workingmen's Coöperation Bank,' incorporated June 9, 1880.

"My third daughter, Helen Atherton, died July 31, 1879.

"P.O. address, 83 Newbury st., Boston."

FRANCIS LAWTON.

He writes: "I hope I am in time for your next bulletin. I like to be in there. The older I get the worse I get in that respect; the old friends, the old times, and the old songs grow more and more attractive to me. I should have reported before, but the fact was, Thomas, I had to get something new to say that came within the requisitions of your general order. I therefore married, and trust I am in time.

"Answer to question 4: On the 26th of April, 1881, I was married to Elizabeth Arnold Evans, of Providence, R.I., daughter of Bailey W. Evans, and Katharine M., his wife.

"Answer to question 9: On that occasion mentioned, Wm. T. Bull officiated as best man, and Nathl. S. Smith as usher, among other well known consule planco, and the aforesaid persons conducted themselves to the delight of the ladies, and the utter destruction of the supper, and the Widow Clicquot."

FRANCIS MASON LEARNED.

CHARLES STANLEY LESTER.

He writes: "My report is brief. In April, 1880, I received a call to the rectorship of St. Paul's Church, Milwaukee, which, after long consideration, I declined. In August the call was renewed, and finally accepted. I removed to Milwaukee the first of October, 1880, and should be glad of a call from any of the class of '69. Am a member of the Chicago Literary Club."

GERRITT SMITH MILLER.

He writes: "During the winter of '78 and '9 I went to Holland for the purpose of importing a few cattle from the best herds I could find. The weather was unfavorable, head winds and rough both ways, but we brought over a few animals that have turned out well. It may be well to state in this connection, that my herd of Holstein cattle won the highest honors at our N. Y. State Fair last fall for the third time.

"I was elected member of Assembly to represent Madison county in the N. Y. State Legislature for the year 1880.

"Please remember me cordially to all the fellows who may be present at the Class Dinner."

IRA WARREN MORLEY.

CHARLES WILLIAM MOSELEY.

He writes : "My residence and occupation have not changed since the date of your last triennial. I am still the junior member of the firm of John Pickering & Moseley, as I have been since Sept. 1, 1872, and have continued to meet with a fair measure of success.

"I was admitted a member of the New York Stock Exchange, Dec. 9, 1880, and in Jan'y, 1881, I was elected a trustee of the Institution for Savings in Newburyport and its vicinity, one of the largest and oldest institutions of the kind in the State."

WILLIAM RIPLEY NICHOLS.

He writes : "I have nothing new to record with regard to myself. I am still at the Institute of Technology, as at the time of the last triennial, and indeed for the last ten years."

HENRY KITTREDGE SPAULDING.

He writes : "I regret that I have nothing of importance to report to you with respect to my career since I last wrote you. I have, however, changed my base of operations from San Francisco to New York, where I am still engaged in the practice of law, and am connected with a number of business enterprises as secretary, etc."

FRANCIS MANNING STANWOOD.

Residence continues 163 West Chester park.

In business as clerk with Robinson & Woodworth, merchants, 7 Broad street, Boston.

February 14, 1880, a daughter, Marian, was born.

RAYMOND LEE WARD.

He writes: "Your class circular inquiring about particulars of my life finds me in the same business, malt, and the same office as your last one did. I have no wife, have held no offices, and had no degrees conferred upon me.

"In regard to societies, etc., I belong to some half a dozen clubs here which hardly come under the head of societies, learned or otherwise, although they are the refuge and home of all of us old bachelors.

"I am not the author of any books or pamphlets, except a few articles on free trade, of which I am a warm supporter."

EDWARD DAVIS WASHBURN.

ROBERT CLIFFORD WATSON.

He writes: "I have ridden so many miles on the rail since your last report, and have made so many journeys, that I will only mention one I made to California last October.

"It was a hurried business trip but very interesting, and perhaps the pleasantest feature of it all was meeting so many Harvard men at the annual dinner of the club in San Francisco. Dr. Whitwell ('Bill Whit.') and I went together. I learned that there is a membership of about ninety, and the occasion was thoroughly enjoyable.

"My residence, when at home, is the same, Milton, Mass. Occupation same, fire and marine insurance."

HENRY WARE WEISS.

In the office of the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railroad Company, at Chicago, Illinois.

September 3, 1878, was married to Miss Annie Fraser, of Sunnybac, Nova Scotia.

MEETINGS.

The Third Triennial Dinner of the Class took place at the Parker House, Boston, June 25, 1878.

Fifty-four members were present.

H. G. Pickering was chairman.

Many of the old songs were sung with a snap and chorus equal to the College days, the toasts were properly responded to, visits were received from and made to the Classes of 1858 and 1863, and the dinner was concluded by the singing of "Auld Lang Syne."

The following original poems were read : —

I look upon the faces gathered round
This board to-night ; I hear the welcome sound
Of pleasant voices, — to our listening ears
Unchanged, unaltered, with the lapse of years ;
And scarcely realize that years have passed,
Near half a score, since first our names were classed
Among the list which, Latinized, appears
In a thick pamphlet once in each three years.

The many memories of College life
Come thronging back ; the struggles and the strife
With mathematics, for example, seem
Like the illusions of some fevered dream.
However, if we failed on X. Y. Z.,
At least we managed to get our A. B.
Look at it how we may, we've older grown ;
Swift-winged, or leaden-pinioned, time has flown.
The friend who once was Tom, or Dick, or Nat,
Is now the Reverend This, or Squire That ;
Married and settled down, — perchance a pater,
Much less his Alma, than his Children's, Mater
His thoughts engage, — except Commencement Day,
Which 'tis a good old custom by the way ;
We hope it never will be given up)
He keeps for friendship o'er the social cup.

Instead of Greek and Latin, worldly cares
 Usurp the place that formerly was theirs;
 Deep in divinity, or law obscure,
 Art, music, medicine, or literature,
 Or mercantile pursuits, we now engage,
 Too surely pointing to increasing age.
 And he who pulled in Class, or College Crew,
 Has learned to paddle since his own canoe;
 No more at ball his interests at stake,
 The world's hard knocks obliged to give and take;
 In short, though boys no longer, still, to-night
 We'll make old time turn backward in his flight;
 And though, like alchemists, we may have laid
 Our plans for gold in all we have essayed,
 Or boldly in the lists have sought a name
 To win and place upon the rolls of fame;
 But found an ignis fatuus instead,
 Vainly pursued, — which e'er before us fled,
 Ageing us heart and mind; we still can find
 Our hopes renewed in meetings of this kind:
 For, though not the Perennial fount of youth,
Triennial Elixir 'tis, in truth:
 And, boys again, we grasp a classmate's hand;
 Feeling as when, a merry-hearted band,
 We faced the world, left college life behind,
 With pleasant memories in "Sixty-Nine."

N. M. SAFFORD, June 25, '78.

A FOUR-PART SONG.

In Eighteen Hundred Sixty-Nine
 That sun-lit group was wondrous gay! —
 Their eyes were bright, their thought was free,
 Its only limit Loyalty;
 Their hearts were true, their arms were strong;
 They sang again Youth's ancient song
 That Hoped-for of the race were they
 In 1869.

In Eighteen Hundred Seventy-Two
 With glowing action burns the scene!
 Now flash the eyes! Intent the thought!
 For Gold and Glory must be bought!

And some would grasp the brightest gems,
 And some would buy the proud A.M.'s,
 And many the purchase made, I ween,
 Ere 1872.

In Eighteen Hundred Seventy-Five
 For many a one 'tis Heaven here!
 He has a loved one now to guard!
 No longer pipe, or dog, or horse:
 Oh no! such loves have run their course!
 A maid! and maiden's mother dear!
 And now, perhaps, he's made or marred
 Ere 1875.

In Eighteen Hundred Seventy-Eight
 Now meet again these true old hearts!
 Oh, then fill high with generous wine
 In memory sweet of Auld Lang Syne!
 Those years are dead; we drop a tear:
 Our brothers live! behold them here!
 Now to the ties Death only parts!
 Here's to the Class of '69!

ARTHUR IRVING FISKE.

THE WATER CURE.

NAT. CHILDS.

I have searched all the catalogues thro' and thro' —
 Triennials, annuaries, all —
 The degrees honorarii, I've counted them too,
 If perchance my seeking might fall
 On the rare mellifluous, redolent name,
 Suggestive of Erin's green sod,
 Of Murphy — (it seems too the same
 Is suggestive of bearing the hod).

This "Brother in" — well, I don't think I'll say what,
 His signature surely must speak
 To one who the true sense religious has got
 As most unparalleled cheek —
 Nowhere doth appear in the dignified list
 Of names where are both yours and mine.
 Somehow, at some time, his degree he has missed,
 Was suspended or forced to resign.

Yet to-day we are asked insinuously,
 Not openly, "right out and out,"
 At Commencement, no longer tipplers to be,
 To give up our freedom to "shout."
 'Tis a plot of this Murphy, revengeful and dire;
 He seeks not our hot blood to calm,
 But rather to kindle within us new fire,
 To blister and burn to our harm.

He seeks to make factions in classes, be sure,
 To import here his Donnybrook ways,
 To get us to fighting, perhaps tearing fur,
 In Shelalaish "illigant" plays.
 I guess at his plan; the cause, too, I guess;
 I cannot be certain it's true;
 We're none of us priests — he will never confess
 His sins unto me or to you.

I think, he a Sophomore, once on a time,
 Went off on a terrible bat,
 Some hours after midnight he wended zu heim,
 With ceramics o'erweighting his hat.
 The conventional brick he shied with full force
 At a poor Freshman's window, and then,
 Being too proud to run — or too drunk — of course,
 Got caught by some Faculty men.

Suspended, expelled, he determined with zeal
 To abstinence preach all his days —
 "I'll teach these unjust cusses how it will feel
 Never more the wine-cup to raise.
 When their throattles are dry and panting for drink,
 They shall fear a crusading from me;
 If they tipple 'twill be on the sly then, I think,
 No more 'Heres to you' there shall be."

O Murphy, triumphant! The ear thou hast gained
 Of Harvard's most eminent rule;
 It is hinted we drink too much. Are we pained?
 Do we feel reprimanded at school?
 The once-a-year glass we smile o'er whose edge,
 By Murphyish plan, is made dry,
 Our dear classmates' health in soda we pledge,
 But to brandy a "no" must reply.

The subject is dreary, I'll not have it, not I.

Let's drink to our dear college hours;

We will drink, too, in public, and not on the sly,

In despite of all the be powers;

The sober may frown, and others be sad,

And all may their backs upward hunch,

I'll never believe Sixty-nines to the bad,

So hand me a goblet of punch.

Commencement, June 26, 1878.

Business meeting of the Class was held at Holworthy 9, at 12.45.

The Third Triennial Report of the Class Secretary was duly accepted.

The notice of the death of Robert Alder McLeod therein was formally presented and accepted as part of the Class Records.

A Decennial Subscription Class Dinner was held at the Parker House, June 24, 1879.

Thirty-two men were present, and the dinner was successful.

Commencement, June 25, 1879.

Business meeting of the Class was held at Holworthy 17, at 12.45.

The Secretary's accounts, having been audited by H. G. Pickering, were approved and accepted.

The Secretary reported the death, during the past year, of William Henry French and Francis Low. A notice of French, prepared by J. C. Bartlett, and one of Low, prepared by A. M. Howe, were read, and a vote was adopted that copies of the same be sent to the respective families, and that they be printed in the Secretary's next report.

Commencement, June 30, 1880.

Business meeting of the Class was held at Holworthy 9, at 1 P.M.

The Secretary presented his accounts, and the same were approved and accepted.

The Secretary reported the death of William Oxnard Moseley, Jr., during the past year, and a notice, prepared by J. B. Ayer, was read, and it was voted that a copy be sent to Rev. W. O. Moseley, and that it be printed in the Secretary's next report.

It was voted that the Fourth Triennial Class Dinner be held at Parker's on the night before Commencement, 1881.

Adjourned.
